WE REALLY NEED TO TAKE FRESH LOOK AT THE 'RENDER UNTO CAESAR' MOMENT, SAYS JOSEPH KELLY

It's probably one of the most enigmatic and powerful stories in the Bible - the dilemma posed to Jesus on whether or not it was lawful to pay taxes to Caesar (Mt 22:17) has both inspired and confounded Christians ever since Our Lord uttered those iconic words "Render therefore to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's" (v. 21). This story, and the response of Jesus, has come - rightly or wrongly - to form the foundation stone of many Catholic social justice programmes. Whether it's the desired-for separation of Christian society and the state, the separation of theology from economics, or simply the justification for radical social action, almost everyone has their own particular take on this biblical moment of entrapment and intrigue. As this was last Sunday's Gospel reading, it was no surprise that Pope Francis ...

IN CONVERSATION: JOSEPH KELLY TALKS TO SR ELENA BELARMINO OF THE SISTERS OF MARY

Everyone knows that in the parts of the world where poverty is a major issue, education is the key to sustainable, positive change. In particular children can only learn effectively in a safe, secure and loving environment. That is why World Villages for Children supports the education programmes of the Sisters of Mary to run live-in schools for the most deprived boys and girls across the world. In the Philippines, Mexico, Guatemala, Brazil, Honduras and Tanzania World Villages provide equitable access to education for boys and girls and fund school places and all the daily care needed for nearly 20,000 of the world's ...
